South Lake Tahoe

South Lake Tahoe is famous for its bustling casino district, nightlife, and restaurants. Whether into bar-hopping and blackjack, or strictly out for the steep and deep, South Lake's got it all.

South Lake resorts also include Kirkwood, known as a wicked powder mecca in skiing circles, with 15 lifts, 610m of vertical, 86 trails and 2,300 acres to explore. This resort has earned a solid reputation for its incredible snowfalls and variety of terrain.

North Lake Tahoe

North Lake Tahoe is comprised of several small lakeside towns such as mellow, laid-back Truckee. Northstar-At-Tahoe, just outside of Truckee, is a complete destination resort featuring 20 lifts, 100 trails, 690m vertical and 3,170 acres. Nearby Squaw Valley offers phenomenal views of Lake Tahoe to complement its long runs and steep, challenging terrain. There are 42 lifts and 869m of vertical at Squaw, and if double black diamonds are on the menu, this is the place! Squaw Valley is not a self-contained resort, so we can stay anywhere in the region and get to the hill via ski bus or car.

Prefer cross-country skiing? Then there's the option of taking some time to glide around Royal Gorge cross-country ski resort with 88 trails and 328 km of skiing.
